MAA-NULTH FIRST NATIONS: STATEMENT OF INTENT

1. What is the First Nation called?

The Huu-ay-aht First Nations, the Ka:'yu:'k't'h'/Che:k'tles7et'h' Nation, the Toquaht Nation, the Uchucklesaht Nation and the Ucluelet Nation. These First Nations are negotiating as the Maa-nulth First Nations.

2. How is the governing body organized and established for the purposes of treaty negotiations by the aboriginal people it represents ("the constituents")?

Individual Indian Act Band Councils working in consultation with the hereditary leadership of each First Nation, and negotiating as a legal entity known as the Maa-nulth Nations.

3. How did the governing body get its mandate from its constituents to enter into the treaty process and to conduct treaty negotiations with Canada and British Columbia?

The Maa-nulth First Nations received their mandate to enter into the treaty process as part of the Nuu-chah-nulth Tribal Council. The process by which that mandate was obtained is set out in the Nuu-chah-nulth Tribal Council's Statement of Intent that was received by the British Columbia Treaty Commission on January 5, 1994.

As part of the Nuu-chah-nulth Tribal Council, the Maa-nulth First Nations were declared ready on November 3, 1994, signed a Framework Agreement on March 27, 1996, and approved a Nuu-chah-nulth Agreement in Principle on March 10, 2001. Their approval was provided by processes satisfactory to each of the Maa-nulth First Nations.

On May 15, 2001, the Nuu-chah-nulth Tribal Council passed a resolution that enabled the Maa-nulth First Nations to proceed with negotiations at their discretion; other Nuu-chah-nulth Tribal Council First Nations that had not approved the Agreement in Principle were enabled by the same resolution to continue to evaluate their options for proceeding with negotiations.

Between May 2001 and May 2003 the Maa-nulth First Nations negotiated a modified Agreement in Principle, which was initialled on May 29, 2003. During June, July and August, 2003, the constituents of the Maa-nulth First Nations ratified the Agreement in Principle. Ratification was preceded by extensive community information initiatives and was obtained by several means. On a First Nation-by-First Nation basis, these include:

- Authorization at community meetings for the Band Councils of the Huu-ay-aht First Nations and the Ucluelet Nation to confirm the ratification by means of a Band Council Resolution;
- A secret ballot conducted by the Uchucklesaht Tribe in the course of a community meeting, the results of which approved ratification;
- c. A secret ballot conducted by the Ka:'yu:'k't'h'/Che:k'tles7et'h' Nation over the course of two community meetings and by a mail-in ballot, the results of which approved ratification; and
- d. Direction at several community meetings together with the results of a poll conducted by telephone by the Toquaht Nation, the results of which approved ratification.

This new statement of intent has been authorized by the Councils of each of the Maanulth Nations to enable them to proceed separately from the Nuu-chah-nulth statement of intent with the treaty negotiations which the Maa-nulth constituents have already mandated.

4. Who are the aboriginal people represented in the Statement of Intent?

The aboriginal people represented in the Statement of Intent are all of the members of the Huu-ay-aht First Nations, the Ka.'yu.'k'th'/Che:k'tles7et'h' Nation, the Toquaht Nation, the Uchucklesaht Nation and the Ucluelet Nation.

5. How many aboriginal people are represented in the Statement of Intent?

a. Huu-ay-aht: 565 people
b. Ka:'yu:'k't'h'/Che:k'tles7et'h': 479 people
c. Toquaht: 116 people
d. Uchucklesaht: 161 people
e. Ucluelet: 607 people

6. Is there any other First Nation that claims to represent the aboriginal people described in 4 and 5 above?

No other First Nation claims to represent the aboriginal people described in 4 and 5 above in treaty negotiations.

All of the Maa-nulth Nations continue to be full members of the Nuu-chah-nulth Tribal Council, and some programs and services are provided to Maa-nulth Nations (or, as the case may be, to individual members of Maa-nulth Nations) through the Nuu-chah-nulth Tribal Council.

7. What is the First Nations' traditional territory in British Columbia? Please identify any First Nations with whom the First Nation may have overlapping or shared territory.

A map showing the traditional territory is attached.

Agreements have been reached as follows:

- a. Between Huu-ay-aht, Tseshaht, and Uchucklesaht regarding Tzartus Island;
- b. Between Huu-ay-aht and Tseshaht regarding Coleman Creek;
- c. Between Huu-ay-aht and Ditidaht regarding the Tsusiat area; and
- d. Between Toquaht and Tla-o-qui-aht regarding the boundary between them.

Negotiation is underway and is expected to conclude within two months between the Uchucklesaht Tribe and the Uchuelet First Nation regarding their interests in Effingham Inlet.

The above summarizes the status of overlap issues known to the Maa-nulth Nations at this time. It is understood that the Hupacasath Nation has made assertions in the print media regarding an alleged overlap with the Ucluelet Nation. This assertion has not been made to the Ucluelet Nation. As and when it is made the assertion will be investigated and, if considered valid, resolution by negotiation will be attempted.
